FROM THE CHAIRMAN'S DESK

Your Excellencies, Honourable Ministers, The Chief of Defence Staff, Gen. Christopher Musa, OFR, The Director-General, Department of State Services, Mr. Adeola Oluwatosin Ajayi, MON.

Members of the diplomatic community, The President, ASIS, Mr. Joe Olivarez, The CEO, ASIS, Mr. Bill Tenney, Distinguished Security Chiefs and Agency Heads, Members of the Sub-Saharan African Council and Executive Members of our Association, Respected Volunteer Leaders and Chapter Delegates, Esteemed Guests, Ladies and Gentlemen. Good morning.

It is both a great honour and a humbling privilege to welcome you all to this significant occasion — the Sub-

Saharan Africa Security Conference (SASCON) — hosted here in Lagos, Nigeria, under the auspices of the largest and most vibrant chapter in Africa – ASIS Lagos Chapter 206. As the Chairman of the Local Organizing Committee (LOC) and Chairman of the Host Chapter, I am delighted to say: Welcome to Lagos, the city of aquatic splendour and welcome to a conference where strategy meets purpose.

This year's theme, "Strategic Approaches to Security in Complex Africa," could not be more timely or more necessary. Our continent stands at a crossroads, faced with a complex mix of traditional threats, transnational crime, cyber insecurity, political instability, and humanitarian crises. Yet within this complexity lies opportunity: the opportunity to shape our collective security agenda through deliberate, innovative, and collaborative strategies. This conference is designed as a platform for exactly that.

To the President, CEO and other Executive Committee members of ASIS, thank you for your leadership and for continuing to champion regional engagement and professional excellence across Africa. To our distinguished guests — the Chief of Defence Staff, the Director-General of the Department of State Services, and other senior security chiefs, we deeply value your presence and your exemplary service. Your leadership strengthens the bond between professional expertise and national security architecture.

To our Honourable Ministers, we are grateful for your continued commitment to public safety and for your recognition that security is a shared responsibility.

 FROM THE CHAIRMAN'S DESK

To our volunteer leaders, regional delegates, and members from across Sub-Saharan Africa, this gathering reflects the power of our professional community and the shared vision that drives us forward.

Organizing a conference of this magnitude has demanded careful planning, teamwork, and dedication. I want to thank the Local Organizing Committee, our sponsors, partners, and volunteers who have worked tirelessly to make today a reality. Your commitment is commendable.

Over the next two days, we will share insights, explore new ideas, and engage in meaningful dialogue. We will learn from each other's experiences, debate real-world challenges, and forge practical pathways forward. We will do all of these while enjoying and exploring the city of Lagos. But more importantly, let us leave this gathering with renewed resolve — to act more strategically, intentionally, and to collaborate more deeply, and to lead more effectively in our various spheres of influence. As we declare this conference open, I invite us all to fully engage with the conversations, to connect with fellow professionals, and to embrace the responsibility we carry — not just to adapt to a complex Africa, but to help shape a safer and more secure one.

Once again, I welcome you all warmly to Lagos and SASCON 2025. May this conference be enlightening, impactful, and a catalyst for long-lasting partnerships across our region. My speech will not be complete without paying homage to one of our volunteer leaders, a member of the LOC, who passed on some months back. Mr. Peter Okoloh CPP was a former Vice Chair and Chair of ASIS Lagos Chapter 206. He was the ARVP Region 11A at the time of his passing. He led with passion and gave all to ASIS. He was addressed as Mr. ASIS. Ladies and gentlemen, as I wrap up, may I ask that we rise to our feet as we observe a minute's silence to honour him.

Thank you; may Sir P's soul and those of other departed members continue to rest in peace, and may this event mark a defining moment in our collective mission. Thank you.

Adedeji Oduba CPP, PSP
Chairman, ASIS Lagos Chapter 206
